DECORATIVE CONCRETE

RTU is a market leader and the first-choice provider for many of Northern Ireland's leading architects, construction companies and builders. The full product range now on offer, including concrete, decorative concrete, mortars, plasters and floor screeds, also makes RTU a popular choice for the self-build and home improvements market.

Exposa[®] Decorative Concrete is an innovative product developed by RTU and can be used for any residential or commercial hard landscaping project. It is a smart alternative to traditional paving, asphalt, tarmac and loose gravel and is ideal for use on driveways, promenades, footpaths, steps, town centres and pedestrian zones.

There is a wide variety of colours and finishes within the range, offering the architect or designer a high level of flexibility. Exposa[®] sits as well within a rustic setting as it does within a modern minimalist environment, and is always in harmony with the surrounding landscape.

RTU operates a stringent quality control system which ensures our products comply with the relevant British and European Standards. Our computerised batching plant ensures a consistent quality product with full traceability with each batch.

We also recommend that Exposa® is installed by RTU approved installers in order to ensure the quality workmanship and attention to detail that is required for the product to have maximum aesthetic appeal.

The flexibility of Exposa® allows designers and architects alike to be as bold or subtle in their design as required. With a wide variety of colours and finishes, Exposa® allows you to shape your space to maximum effect – straight or curved or anything in between! If you cannot find your desired colour in the standard range, then we can tailor the aggregate and colour to your specific individual requirements. When used together in one project, different colours of Exposa® work extremely well side by side to create a stunning effect. In addition, other materials such as cobble or paving stones may be positioned as movement joints or to form a border, thus adding to the design options.
