Facilitates Collaboration

Between impromptu meetings and scheduled brainstorming, today's employees are collaborating more frequently throughout the workday. As collaboration continues to grow, it's becoming more difficult for employees to find and reserve spaces that meet their needs, resulting in wasted time and underutilized real estate.

CONFUSION

Outdated methods of reserving group workspaces, such as sticky notes, are ineffective, causing anxiety and uncertainty for workers seeking collaborative spaces.

Reservation Difficulties

When it comes to finding and reserving collaborative spaces, traditional processes can be confusing, frustrating and ineffective—decreasing productivity and real estate usage. RoomWizard brings visibility to available workspaces throughout the office.

INTERRUPTION

Without a visible reservation system, employees are left guessing which collaborative spaces are available, often resulting in interrupted meetings.

WASTED TIME

Time is wasted when workers are unable to quickly and accurately identify and reserve vacant workspaces.

Designed to work with both open and closed collaborative spaces, employees can reserve a space on the spot with the touch of a finger or ahead of time from a laptop or computer.
