One of two new paving ranges from the prestigious National Trust Paving Collection, introducing natural stone and porcelain to the Collection for the first time.

This exciting new range of paving has been specifically chosen to resist the inclement British climate and includes 3 beautiful new products which will weather beautifully over time.

Inspired by the 800 miles of rugged coastline cared for by the National Trust, the Coastal Cottage range takes its influence from the majestic natural stone cliffs, timeless villages and traditional architecture of the coastal regions.

Branscombe Slate

Aged natural slate with brown and rust tones providing warmth and a softly worn character to cottage and coastal gardens.

Tintagel Slate

Lightly tumbled aged slate paving with a subtle distressed texture, ideal for patios and paths. Can also be laid internally.

Mill Bay Porcelain

Stunning wood-effect porcelain paving with a natural driftwood appearance in 2 vintage shades; Walnut and Driftwood. A durable alternative to traditional decking offering R11 Slip Resistance and a warm coastal vibe.

NEW Townhouse Range

Inspired by the elegant Georgian, Edwardian and Victorian Townhouses throughout the country which still inspire our architecture today. This beautiful range comprises Limestone paving and complementary cobbles in 2 beautifully natural hues, alongside elegant Porcelain tiles.

Rainham Hall Limestone Flagstones & Cobbles

Inspired by the National Trust's Rainham Hall which was once an 18th Century merchant's home, these flagstones reflect the timeless elegance of the hall itself. Their elegant mid-grey tones and lightly tumbled finish creates a truly sophisticated yet characterful appearance.

Lamb House Limestone Flagstones & Cobbles

Add warmth and charm with its golden glow and honey hues. Inspired by the National Trust's stunning Lamb House which is bursting with elegance and traditional Georgian charm, these limestone flagstones are perfect for contemporary townhouse gardens and traditional properties alike.

Mompesson Porcelain Paving - Gold and Ivory

Add a luxurious touch to outdoor spaces with this beautiful porcelain range which creates an elegant and welcoming atmosphere to period townhouses and modern gardens alike. Inspired by the 18th Century townhouse Mompesson, this porcelain paving reflects the ornate and regal ambience of the historical building that embodies the Queen Anne architectural style.

Westminster Stone and the National Trust

Respecting our British history is something we strongly value here at Westminster Stone. With nearly 40 years of experience, hand-crafting new products using moulds from original flagstone masters. By preserving the authentic character and beauty of British flagstones, we can ensure that these iconic designs continue to inspire future generations to come.

Our National Trust Paving Collection takes inspiration from beautiful places including Hidcote Manor in the Cotswolds, Tatton Park in Cheshire and Barrington Court in Somerset. Our premium quality products have been chosen by the National Trust for their authenticity and sustainability. This is because our production methods are more sustainable than quarrying for new stone or importing from overseas.

Income is generated for the National Trust when Purchasing our National Trust Paving Collections. By incorporating a piece of British history into your garden, you actively participate in preserving our nation's rich heritage. Your contribution plays a crucial role in protecting and maintaining these historical treasures for future generations to appreciate and enjoy.
